

R 1-8-9 Board Immunity from Liability: Disclosure of Information Regarding Former Employees

The Board or any of its designated agent who discloses job-related information that may be reasonably considered adverse about a former or current employee to a prospective employer of the former or current employee is presumed to be acting in good faith and is immune from civil liability for the disclosure or its consequences: Provided, that the disclosure of such information pursuant to WVC §55-7-18a shall be in writing and a copy of any such disclosure shall be provided to the former or current employee at the time of disclosure.

The presumption of good faith is rebutted upon a showing, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the information disclosed was:

- ❖ Knowingly false;
- ❖ Disclosed with reckless disregard for the truth;
- ❖ Deliberately misleading;
- ❖ Rendered with malicious purpose toward the former or current employee; or
- ❖ Disclosed in violation of a nondisclosure agreement or applicable law.

"Job-related information" means information concerning a person's education, training, experience, qualifications, conduct and job performance which is offered for the purpose of providing criteria to evaluate the person's suitability for employment.

If the Board should inadvertently disclose job-related information to a prospective employer of a former or current employee that was false or misleading, and if the current or former employee requests, then the employer shall give corrected information to every person or entity that is in the employer's records as having received the original information, with a copy thereof to the former or current employee.
